www.EncinoWoods.Com is Live!

I am proud to announce the launch of EncinoWoods.com the online extension of the Encino Woods News! The site is up and functioning, but we are still working on adding some features and functionality. There are community links which we will continue to add to, there is neighborhood profile and some interesting facts about Encino including some of our famous residents! There are archives of the Encino Woods News, as well as the current issue and there is a forum where you can post items of discussion for other residents in the neighborhood. This is a community website and I hope you will participate in the development and growth of the site.

Tip of the Month:
I would love to get your participation and feedback for the Encinowoods.com website. There is a contact us link on the website, as well as my contact information. You can always email me at jodiefrancisco@aol.com or reach me at my office 818-817-4236 I look forward to hearing from you!
